Mick's back in the saddle

Another epic ride for survivor who lost parents and brother to cancer

DEBRA FOX

CANCER survivor Mick Pilling is back in the saddle as he prepares to bike from London to Paris for the second time.

Mick, 60, of Bishops Close, Haverhill, will take on the gruelling cycling challenge for Macmillan and travel 500km in memory of his mother, father and twin brother, who all battled the disease.

The 60-year-old, who was given the all-clear from head and neck cancer in 2010, has supported the charity since 1998, the year his mum started receiving help and advice for her illness.

He said: "I lost my mum, dad and twin brother in the seven years between 1998 and 2005.

"When I buried my brother I was going through head and neck cancer, which is one of the rarer forms of cancer – it affects about four per cent of the cancer population."

Mum Renata, 72, died in 1998, dad John, 81, passed away in 2001 and twin brother Alan, 52, died in 2005 after their cancers spread through their bodies.

Mick has taken on the mammoth bike ride once before in 2011 and has also climbed Ben Nevis in 2010 to try to raise money and awareness for Macmillan after the support they gave to his family.

During the 2011 ride he met Matt Davis, of Huntstanton, and the pair decided to cycle together again after Matt lost his dad at Christmas.

Mick said: "It isn't right that he does it by himself so I signed up to do it with him. It's not just important to me and to us, but to Macmillan and other cancer patients. If others coming through see I can do this it's a goal they can aim for to do something for themselves."

The 60-year-old has racked up £6,000 for the charity so far and plans to boost his total by holding a charity quiz night on June 5 at Costa Coffee in Haverhill High Street, starting at 7pm.

Mick said it will cost £25 for teams of five people, and the pair hope to round up about 15 or 16 teams.

The dad-of-two said: "I have not raised as much as some people, but they need everything they can get, as do all charities."

Mick is training hard for the ride, which sets off from London on July 3, and thanked Abbeycroft Leisure in Haverhill for allowing him free admittance and use of the facilities for three months.

The grandfather-of-three also cycles the 62 minutes from home to Addenbrooke's, where he works in the bowel screening team, every work day.

Community and cadets out in force for memorial service

TRIBUTE: The memorial service at RAF Wrattling

A MEMORIAL service held at RAF Wrattling has remembered the day that the first operational unit arrived at the base in the 1940s.

The Friends of Wrattling Common welcomed the guests from the community, including Cadets of Haverhill 1451 Air Training Corps, and from further afield to the commemorative act of remembrance.

As well as looking back to the day that the 90 Squadron arrived in Wrattling on the last Sunday in May 1943, guests also touched on the loss of two beloved faces from the group.

95 Squadron Navigator Charles Higgins, who crewed Lancasters from RAF Wrattling, and Flight Lieutenant David McSorley, who was dedicated to the continuance of such memorial services, were remembered by friends and relatives at the service on Sunday, May 19.

Charles, who passed away last November at the age of 92, was to have his ashes scattered in the airfield alongside those of his late wife Aida, who attended the memorial services with her husband.

David, who joined the RAF in 1968, died unexpectedly on May 15 at the age of 68.

The next service will take place in November.

Boiling sugar water thrown over inmate

BOILING water laced with sugar was thrown over an inmate inside Highpoint Prison, Ipswich Crown Court heard.

Colby Neil-Clarke has pleaded guilty to assault and causing grievous bodily harm to fellow prison inmate Granville Daring.

He has been sentenced to four years in jail for the attack, which left his victim with second-degree burns.

The incident, on July 24 last year, allegedly came after Mr Daring refused to lend Neil-Clarke, of no fixed address, his hair clippers.

The court heard on Tuesday, May 28, that Daring was chatting to a prison officer near the canteen when he became aware of someone running towards him.

Michael Crimp, prosecuting, told how said Mr Daring felt an "immense pain" as his back, neck and head were struck by the scalding liquid thrown from a plastic tub.

As well as suffering second-degree burns, Mr Daring was heavily blistered and may be scarred for life, Mr Crimp said.

The sugar crystals had to be picked out of his damaged skin during medical treatment.

In the moments after the incident, Mr Daring was given first aid by prison staff as 22-year-old Neil-Clarke was detained.

Kevin Toomey, defending, said that Neil-Clarke, who at the time was also a serving prisoner at Highpoint, believed that he was under threat from Mr Daring and wanted to make a pre-emptive attack.

Neil-Clarke was aware of the pain suffered by Mr Daring as he suffered a similar attack in another prison.

Mr Recorder Guy Ayers, who passed the four-year sentence, refused to believe that the defendant was under any threat from Mr Daring. He said: "You overreacted in a most extraordinary fashion. I utterly reject any suggestion that you were under threat from the victim."

Mr Recorder Ayers continued to say that the combination of sugar and water, which was intended to ensure maximum damage to Mr Daring, was the equivalent of using a weapon.

Zumba fun offers something for all

DANCERS will be busting moves in large numbers as a sponsored event gears up to raise money for a newborn charity.

The zumbathon will be held on Sunday at The Tavern in Birdbrook. It was organised by friends Kerri Cox and Stacey Norris.

The women wanted to raise money for Save the Babies, in memory of a friend's daughter who died at the age of 18 months.

You can pay £5 to take part in the dancing or come along and watch the routines for free.

Experienced movers and shakers and budding dancers alike can all join in with the fundraising fun, while spectators browse the stalls.

Raffle tickets will also be on sale for £2 a strip or three strips for £5.

The friends are still looking for more prizes so anyone willing to donate items of any size can contact Kerri on 07429 342907 or Stacey on 07845 779339.

You can also make a donation at www.justgiving.com/teams/Stacey-Kerri-Zumbathon.

'Epic' teenager Jenny is in running for top award

A TEENAGER described by family and friends as a "rock" has been nominated for an award which honours people who go the extra mile.

Jenny Martin, 14, of Joiners Road, Linton, has been nominated for Ferrier Pearce Young People of the Year award – and the possibility of a win gives her the chance to win a top prize of £800 out of a total of £2,000 to be given away to extraordinary young people who help others, just like her.

The 14-year-old dedicates all of her time to helping her parents and siblings, who each suffer from their own difficulties.

Her brother Philip, 17, suffers from Asperger's syndrome, 12-year-old sister Stephanie has autism and cerebral palsy while brother Christopher, nine, is awaiting diagnosis for what is thought to be Asperger's after constantly calling teachers names and running away from school.

Mum Paula explained that Jenny has been the gem of the family, keeping the others strong and helping everyone out.

Paula said: "Jenny has been aware of what has been happening, whereas the others are more interested in themselves.

"She has conscientiously made efforts to help and smooth things over. She is very caring and comforting."

The proud mum said Jenny suffers from dyslexia, but despite her own difficulties she is still 100 per cent dedicated to caring for her family, her friends and helping out at her local United Reformed Church.

Of her nomination, the 14-year-old said: "I'm a little embarrassed because I don't think I'm doing anything special – it's just my life.

"I help everybody at home because I love my family. But I have found it tiring at times."

Jenny was nominated for the award by her friend Zoe Clayton, 13, who admired the way the 14-year-old puts others before herself.

She said: "I visit her home a lot and see the situation she's in. She's always helping her family and friends at school, putting them before herself. She's epic."

A spokesman for Ferrier Pearce said: "Jenny is, as her mother says, a gem and a rock, a caring person for her siblings, her parents, and her friends at school and church. She puts others first before herself."

YOPEY, now in its ninth year, is open to young people, aged 10-25, who live, work or study in Cambridgeshire. Visit www.yopey.org for further details or to make your own nomination.

Councillors elect new mayor

HAVERHILL town councillors have elected the mayor and deputy mayor to serve the town for the next year.

Cllr Roger André, pictured, has been chosen as mayor, with Cllr Maureen Byrne elected as his deputy.

The pair took part in the ceremonial mayor making at the town council meeting on Tuesday.

Cllr André, who has served as deputy for the last 12 months, has taken over the post from Cllr Pat Hanlon. Cllr Byrne served as mayor between May 2011 and 2012.

Town clerk Will Austin said: "I am pleased to see that two very hard-working local councillors have been elected as mayor and deputy mayor of Haverhill. I look forward to working closely with them both over the next year and pushing forward some of the issues we still need to address."

■ For more on the new mayor, see next week's Weekly News.

IN THE WILD: Wildlife photographer Colin Edwards with one of his shots

Visit some animal crackers

TAKE the time to appreciate some of the country's most interesting wildlife by visiting an exhibition of photographs which celebrates some of the creatures.

A collection of pictures by British wildlife photographer Colin Edwards is on display until June 2 at Haverhill East Town Park Visitors Centre. The breathtaking shots capture some of nature's subjects relaxing in their natural habitats and going about their daily routines. The photographer, who has travelled the globe to take his eclectic range of pictures, also tutors budding snappers and advises contemporaries on the best way to catch the killer shot. He holds a variety of workshops and tutorials throughout the year to spread his knowledge, which has awarded him with a portfolio filled with more than 1,000 pictures. The start of the event, on May 25, also saw the launch of a nature and wildlife photography competition. For full details, contact East Town Park on (01440) 710745. To see examples of Colin's work prior to your visit, go to www.colinedwardswildside.co.uk, or search for Colin Edwards Wildside on Facebook.

Prolific thief gets eight weeks in jail

A SERIAL offender who stole more than £600 worth of food and booze from a Tesco store in one sitting was sentenced to eight weeks in prison yesterday. John Harden, 48, of Bishops Close, Haverhill, pleaded guilty to two counts of theft and making off without payment at West Suffolk Magistrates' Court in Bury St Edmunds on May 1. Harden stole a trolley full food and alcohol from Haverhill Tesco worth £609 on April 20, before failing to pay the £5.60 cab fare which ferried him and the four bulging bags of groceries from the supermarket to home.

DEBRA FOX

He told the driver he would be back after borrowing the money from a friend, but he didn't return to the car to settle the bill. The 48-year-old, who was released on conditional bail pending his sentence, committed a second theft from Tesco in Bury St Edmunds nine days later. On this occasion, he stole food and alcohol to the value of £230 and was arrested shortly after leaving the shop after store security watched him on CCTV. Harden was also fined for shoplifting the day before the £600 theft in Haverhill. On the day of conviction, Rosalind Cappleman, prosecuting, outlined how Harden was a serial offender who was not able to change his ways. He has 50 previous convictions for a total of 175 offences – 74 of them for theft. The court was also told that Harden has a drug addiction and was stealing to fund his habit. David Stewart, mitigating, explained that Harden did not want to be on drugs and that he was just helpless when it came to his addiction.

Identify your risk with osteoporosis scan

SCREENING to identify the risk factor for osteoporosis is coming to Haverhill next week. The scans will be available on Tuesday June 4 at Haverhill Arts Centre from 2pm-5pm. Previously, such procedures to find the risk of future fracture in postmenopausal women are not always readily available on the NHS but you can now have a non-invasive scan for a reduced price of £18. The scans usually cost £22. Today, women are living longer and as age sets in, bones become weaker. Osteoporosis currently affects around one in three post-menopausal women and fracture following trauma is often the only indication of an underlying problem. Risk factors include being postmenopausal, going through early menopause or having a hysterectomy as well as use of steroid-based medications and dietary factors such as coeliac disease, colitis, low calcium diet and alcohol consumption. Lack of exercise and low body mass can also affect the likelihood. For further information and to book an appointment, call Healthcare Screening on 0845 224 6784.

WHITE A BEAUTY: Alf now, above, and right, with mum Kylie when he was born at Linton Zoo in February

He was once an ugly duckling... but just look at Alf now!

WITH its pink eyes and white fur, this albino wallaby was once the ugly duckling.

Zoo keepers even affectionately called it Alf – short for Alien Life Form.

But this must be the wallaby version of the ugly duckling story as Alf, now almost as big as its mum, has grown into a beautiful wallaby.

And there's no doubt he still likes the comfort of mum's pouch, despite it being a bit of a tight squeeze.

This was the first time an albino wallaby had been born at Linton Zoo and the new arrival was a total surprise for keepers when it popped its head out of the pouch for the first time on February 8 this year.

Albino animals, including humans, lack pigment for colouring.

Red-necked wallabies like Alf are usually grey-brown in colour, just like parents Kylie and Jason.

Keepers at the zoo think Alf (who hasn't been given a definite name) is probably descended from the original white wallabies given to Queen Elizabeth II while on a state visit to Australia in 1962.

Musician set to make his mark

AT THIS time of year, most 21-year-olds are focusing on completing their second or third year of university and are trying to keep their heads above water.

But singer and songwriter Dale Bennett has been anxiously awaiting the release of his debut album, Make My Own Breaks, which came out on Tuesday.

The 21-year-old of Calford Drive, Haverhill, penned and produced the eight-track album despite being in the thick of his second year of university.

The musician insists that his music production degree at the University Campus Suffolk is an integral part of helping his career progress.

The former Castle Manor Academy pupil said: "I have been writing songs since I was about nine but I have only got into the production side recently."

"There a lot of people in the industry who don't write their own songs and have a team of people behind them.

"It's better to know more about your trade and I'm always keen to keep learning."

"I hope that what I'm doing is enough and that people like it at the end of the day."

Dale's album was well and truly given the star treatment during the making and was remastered at Metropolis Studios in London where Amy Winehouse, Example and Chase and Status have had their work done.

The songs were also given the once over by engineer Andy Baldwin, who has turned a hand to the work of Coldplay and The Who.

The 21-year-old is more than ready to hit the big time, like the massive names who have gone before him, and is working hard to get signed to a label.

Dale, pictured, who works part time in Costa Coffee, said: "I feel like I'm at the point that if I push I can get somewhere because I am doing so much."

"It's all about pushing. For the first time since I was 16 I feel I have been going somewhere at the minute."

The 21-year-old has been described as having the softness of Ed Sheeran combined with more electronic tracks.

You can get Dale's album through iTunes, Amazon MP3 and many other digital distributors and listen to his songs via www.youtube.com/daledbennettmusic.

Keep up to date with the young musician's latest work by following his Twitter account @DaleBMusic or downloading his free app via www.bandapp.com/daledbennettmusic.

Let's worry about 2014, not 2031

I READ with interest the letter in Weekly News on May 23 from Councillor Tony Brown. I too am extremely concerned with the building of 2,500 houses on part of Wilsey Farm's and the impact it will have, not only on the town's infrastructure (or rather lack of it) but the loss of the only piece of natural countryside of woodland, fields and streams that is so well utilised and appreciated by so many people in Haverhill, plus, the loss of prime agricultural land along with its wildlife. I note that the landowner, to discourage people from walking on paths that are not designated footpaths, has placed signs stating 'wildlife conservation area' on paths that are within the farmland she has sold to the developers. So much for farmers being the keepers of the English countryside! This must depend on the price! After sitting in traffic outside Coupals Primary School on Friday for 10 minutes, because cars were parked both sides of the road and the buses could not get through, (good job a fire engine wasn't trying to get through!), I turned round and came in from the other end of Chalkstone Way and got stuck in traffic coming from the football ground and Samuel Ward. When we have traffic from the 2,500 houses and from the other proposed exit road onto Coupals Road, all coming onto Chalkstone Way, it will be total gridlock. And that is only a small part of my concerns. How about doctors, dentists, schools and shops for the approximately 6,000 people who will be housed in these 2,500 houses? When the Weekly News boasts of '25 pages of houses for sale' most weeks, do we really need that many houses built? Why did they not build over the Cambridge side on the unoccupied land that is sitting with no crops on close to all the main roads and the bypass and as far from town as the Wilsey Farm

Young actor wins award for moving solo spot

A BUDDING thespian has started the rise to stardom after taking home an award at the Haverhill Drama Festival. Sixteen-year-old Scott Walker, of Bury St Edmunds, won the Alan Smith Youth Award for his moving soliloquy in the play Leaving Tommy by Mark Seaman. The First World War drama saw Scott play Private David Reece in the tale of a very young soldier accused of cowardice and facing a firing squad. The play, based on real events, gave the 16-year-old a 45-minute solo performance, which was presented with enough sensitivity to win the engraved silver plate. Scott was also nominated for the Best Actor honour. The performance was staged by Woolpit Drama Club on Thursday May 23 at the Haverhill Arts Centre. Director Paul Gort said: "We are so proud of Scott, and very pleased that the club's first ever venture into a drama competition has been so well received." The drama festival provided visitors with four evenings of theatre fun from Tuesday, May 21, through to Friday, May 24.

development will be? These would not interfere with anyone. Never mind Vision 2031, I think we should concentrate on Vision 2014 and vastly improve basic facilities that are sadly lacking for the people who already reside in Haverhill, before we even consider building more houses. Brigitte Heard Haverhill

A walk and a bit of gardening for pupils

PUPILS and friends of Coupals school have been working and playing hard this month. Some of the children took part in an annual sponsored Stepping Stones walk, left, to raise money for more equipment for the school and to pay for class outings. The group were scheduled to take a turn around East Town Park last Friday – and although the bad weather altered the route it did not dampen the day. The children and their helpers walked to and from newly-opened Rascals Play Barn, in Boundary Road, before enjoying an afternoon picnic back at the classroom. A tidy-up of the school's garden, above, took place yesterday and after hours of work from volunteers the garden is weed-free and will soon have newly renovated benches to boot.

Students' sausages go on sale

FOUR school pupils got a taste of success when the sausage they designed was mass-produced for a supermarket chain.

As part of their Linton Village College food technology course late last year, Lauren Cole, Bethany Wrenn, Andrew Martin and Francesca Robb formed team 'Seasonal Sensations' and came up with the ingredients, marketing campaign, packaging and storyboard for a spiralled sharing sausage.

And having defeated all comers, the 14-year-olds' family pork sausage, packed full of hearty winter root vegetables such as parsnips, leeks and carrots, was launched at Dalehead Foods in Linton last week ahead of it being sold at nearly 50 Waitrose branches.

The judging panel included Waitrose meat counter buyer Andy Boulton, and head of sustainability and ethical sourcing Quentin Clark.

Mr Boulton said: "The team created something innovative using a delicious combination of ingredients. Roasted vegetables are really popular at the moment so I know it will be a big hit with our shoppers."

Francesca added: "It is pretty amazing to see our recipe going on sale in Waitrose and it is very tasty!"

Dalehead Foods and Linton Village College are both members of the Business in the Community initiative and teamed up for an Olympic-themed project last summer.

Ian Simmons, head of business and enterprise at LVC, said: "This project has shown the importance of businesses working with schools to provide an exciting extension to their normal curriculum."

Students' comedy night proves a hit

MONTHS of hard work went out with a bang after a night of laughs for the crowd at a comedy gala.

Pupils across Haverhill took part in a stand-up showcase at Castle Manor Academy on Tuesday, May 21.

More than 300 students from St Felix Catholic Primary, Burton End Primary, Place Farm Academy, Clements Primary and Castle Manor Academy worked tirelessly on gags, poetry and sketches for three months, hoping for the chance to make it to the stage on the big night.

The show, which was run by the Theatre Royal in Bury St Edmunds, was helped along by three Castle Manor sixth formers and was a big success – with even bigger laughs.

Before the show, sixth former Daniel Ellis told the Weekly News how impressed he was with the quality and variety of talent on offer, and was pleased with the way the show seemed set to go.

The 325 Year 5 and Year 8 pupils

exceeded all expectations.

Daniel, who is working towards his Gold Arts Award, said: "It feels great to have pulled it off."

"Obviously there's always a chance with such a big thing that it might not work but seeing the final show was brilliant."

"Three months isn't a long time to learn stuff, but the standard they put on was fabulous."

The sold-out show was performed to 250 guests and the students' jokes, which were cleaned and polished through working with Kirsty Hudson and Nick Paley as well as performance poet Joel Stickley, were a big step up from classroom comedy.

The show was a team effort, and students were given full responsibility from the start.

As well as putting on a jam-packed evening, the pupils and their sixth form supervisors were in charge of ticket sales, marketing, refreshments and technology – everything that contributed to the smooth running of the sell-out performance.

Daniel, 17, who organised the show with Rhys Davies and Cian Harriss, both 17, said: "The teachers were overseeing things when the students were learning all their stuff and we had a bigger role in terms of the performance."

"We had a lot of support from teachers at the schools and we were helping with that side of things."

It is hoped that the success of the show will encourage the schools to team up again in coming years to bring another performance to the stage and entertain another crowd.

Daniel said: "I think that's one of the long term hopes, not necessarily comedy, but running performances like this."

"Having students involved with the organisation is something they are hoping to try and do."

MP taking time for dad duty

FAMILY MAN: Haverhill MP Matthew Hancock is taking time over the summer for the birth of his third child

WEST Suffolk MP and skills minister Matthew Hancock has decided to take a two-month break this summer after his third child is born.

Mr Hancock, who covers the Haverhill and Newmarket areas, will not miss a moment of his newborn's first months after adding the MPs' extended summer recess onto two weeks' mandatory paternity leave.

The MP is one of those behind moves to extend parental leave to fathers as well as mothers – a change which could see mothers returning to work a few short weeks after birth, and fathers elbow-deep in nappies and formula.

Mr Hancock said: "I'm very supportive of more flexible paternity leave, but I come from a small business background so I don't think we need more leave, but to be able to take it flexibly between mothers and fathers."

The father-of-two, soon to be three, added that he thinks balancing work commitments with family life is key.

He said: "I think it is important as a father to be on hand when the baby arrives and I'll be in Suffolk doing constituency work and working on red boxes while also being there to help out with the nappies.

"I will of course still be able to get to Westminster if there is a tight vote. If the baby is asleep say between 10pm and midnight and that's when I can get my work done, then that's what will happen. I've hardly had a day off this year, and this is about flexibly juggling my work duties and my duty to my family."

Annual fete rolls into town

EXPERIENCE the best of British as a yearly fete sets up camp for another year.

The Great Watting Fete is taking place this Saturday at Rock Tree Farm between 1pm and 5pm.

Whether you fancy a delectable cake and cup of tea or a Pimms and sausage sandwich, you can enjoy it all in the great outdoors.

The whole family can enjoy fun in the beautiful garden surroundings with a bouncy castle, children's games and stalls, all to the soundtrack of the award-winning Haverhill Silver Band.

Entrance to the fete costs £1 for over-16s and this year the money raised will be earmarked to go towards repairing the roof of St Mary's church in Watting.

The church, which predates the 13th century, has been deemed a "particularly important building of more than special interest" by English Heritage and his been awarded Grade II status.

Club welcomes in new facilities

A SUCCESSFUL village cricket club welcomed some brand new facilities and an international club to their base on the same day.

Thriplow Cricket Club are the proud owners of new outdoor nets, which were awarded after funding was raised by the Lord Taverners charity, South Cambridgeshire District Council and Daffodil Weekend Village Trust.

In honour of the new addition, the club hosted a visit from local Lords & Lady Taverners representatives Ross and Pauline Jakes, together with the Switzerland U15 team on Sunday, May 19.

The village club has three adult sides in the men's Cambridge league, as well as a ladies team and junior teams from under nine through to under 15.

The successful teams allow Thriplow CC to provide playing opportunities for boys, girls, men and women alike, at all abilities.

Our schools 'could learn from Hackney'

SUFFOLK schools could learn lessons from an inner city London borough, according to a report commissioned to improve the county's poor attainment levels.

Suffolk County Council has partnered with Hackney Council to create the impetus for more radical change within the county's education system after success has shown throughout schools in the latter.

This has been set up following a 10-month independent inquiry into school performance in Suffolk.

A report by the Royal Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce (RSA) points to improvements achieved in schools in Hackney and argues gains can be achieved if a similar approach is taken in Suffolk.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, cabinet member of education, skills and young people at Suffolk County Council, said: "When we commissioned the RSA to lead the Raising the Bar inquiry, we had one very clear objective in mind – to find solutions that would help improve the educational attainment of Suffolk children now and in the future."

"While we will take time to assess fully all the report's recommendations, the proposed partnership with Hackney is something we're very positive about and have already started to implement."

"This isn't about replicating exactly what Hackney has done because that wouldn't necessarily work in Suffolk."

"We know that much can be achieved from closer working with them and that fresh ideas will come from partnerships like this."

Cllr Rita Krishna, cabinet member for children's services at Hackney Council, said that the partnership will be a good move towards improvements across Suffolk.

She said: "We are happy to develop a more formal relationship with Suffolk County Council to help raise educational standards in the county."

Suffolk County Council is expected to publish its formal response to the RSA's report in July 2013.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF SCHOOLS IN OUR AREA?

A CHANCE meeting between two men has put a little mystery to bed.

For 18 years, six beautiful cast iron scrolls stood gathering dust in Taylor's foundry, Haverhill.

The owner, Gerry Taylor, had never received payment for the works and had considered taking the scrolls home to decorate his garden.

Meanwhile, something was missing from the famous Trellis Walk in the Italian Gardens of the Trentham estate.

A chance encounter at the Royal Academy in London allowed the two men to make the connection.

Gerry Taylor and Mike Herbert, regional director at St Modwen, who own the estate, were at the Royal Academy for a celebration of bronze metal works.

After what Gerry described as a "jovial chat" they made the connection and realised the works were probably done by Gerry's father as replacements for six lost scrolls from the famous Trellis Walk.

The earliest record of the estate, in Stoke on Trent, dates back to 1086, and since it has been home to a number of influential figures, including the Earl of Suffolk and Sir Thomas Pope.

Millions of pounds have been spent on the estate in recent years to restore it to its former glory and the scrolls have now placed in their rightful location.

Michael Walker, Trentham's head of garden and estate, said: "It's amazing how a chance meeting in London between two key players led to this important piece of restoration".

Planning your Wedding

Be sure to enjoy your own party!

WEDDING BELLE: Having fun is contagious!

AS SOON as the diamond ring slips onto your finger there is no doubt you are already thinking flower arrangements, colour schemes and, most importantly, wedding dresses.

When the initial euphoria of engagement fever has gone and the planning monster sets in, you realise that, actually, this is a big job you have on your hands.

There are invitations to be sent, menus to be chosen and bridesmaids to be selected while your fiancée sits back and relaxes thinking his job is done now the ring has been bought.

Even the most organised bride-to-be needs assistance to get the job done and there are always an array of helpers on hand to get you through the months leading up to the wedding.

The main job is perhaps the hardest – make sure you look good.

Finding the perfect gown is the top priority on every bride's to do list, so be sure to seek solace in dressmakers to help with the best style for your body shape and never be afraid to admit you'd prefer to be that little bit more svelte as your prepare to don the most important dress you'll ever wear.

Picking a theme is one of the easiest ways to watch the rest of your big day fall into place.

Discuss your many ideas with everyone from your florist, to your baker and dressmaker to help everything get in sync for a seamless celebration.

Though the wedding is the bride's day, don't forget about your guests.

A tasty buffet, perfect party favours and a delicately crafted cake can top off a swinging reception nicely, leaving all eyes on you as not only the most beautiful bride, but the best party-thrower in town to boot.

CHEERS: Be sure you've got help at hand to ensure the day goes smoothly.

MILESTONE: May Cross surrounded by family yesterday

Gipsy promise comes true for May

A GREAT-GRANDMOTHER who has just celebrated her 100th birthday still can't believe she's made it to the grand old age of a century.

May Cross, of Westbourne Court, Haverhill, told the Weekly News that a gipsy predicted she would live to be a centenarian.

May, who turned 100 yesterday, said: "I can't believe it. A gipsy woman came round my house selling washing pegs over 40 years ago and she told me, 'you're going to live 100 years'."

"I just laughed; I didn't believe her."

May, who moved to Haverhill in the 1960s, has two children, Pauline, 70, and 72-year-old Charles.

She has three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

May, who celebrated her day with a tea party, left school at 14 to work in the house of Sir John and Lady Smith in Havering, near Romford. She earned 10 shillings a week and one day off a month.

The centenarian said: "There was nothing to do for girls when they left school except to go into service. We had to work jolly hard – there were no hoovers or washing machines."

The great-grandmother, whose first husband died in 1976, met her second husband George after placing an ad to search for companionship.

She said: "I was a widow for seven years but I began to be a nuisance to my son and daughter."

"I put an advert in the Cambridge Evening News for a friend and I met George and we got married in 1983."

George died in 2000, but May still spends her days surrounded by family and is cared for by granddaughter Christine, who visits every day.

Robyne's rare condition has turned her life upside down

A rare and debilitating condition caused by a deadly blood clot has changed Robyne Toseland's life forever. But, despite battling an illness which leaves her "feeling drunk, just without the alcohol", the inspiring 28-year-old is determined to make every day count – and help others find their silver lining too. Lydia Fallon reports ROBYNE Toseland is getting a new tattoo, but this is no trivial inking of a flower or a heart, it is a date – March 16, 2008, to be exact – the day her life changed forever.

"I think people think I'm crazy," says Robyne. "But on that date I was diagnosed with a pulmonary embolism, and it all started from there really. My life changed and it's never going to be the same again."

"I want it tattooed to remind me how lucky I am, but also because I feel like it symbolises the beginning of the new me. In many ways I'm grieving for the Robyne that I lost on that date, but I'm now a new Robyne – I just have to try and get used to her!"

To meet Robyne today – bright, bubbly and infectiously upbeat – I would never have guessed the girl sitting in front of me has not only overcome two life threatening illnesses, but also suffers from a chronic condition which has turned her world completely upside down.

A day out shopping with friends, dancing the night away in town, a secure and fulfilling career. These are the kind of things most 28-year-olds take for granted, but since Robyne, who lives in Impington, was diagnosed with Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome, or POTS for short, last year, even attempting the smallest things can prove the ultimate struggle. "Life has completely changed for me," Robyne explains. "It's kind of like I'm old before my time. I used to love going out with my friends, but now I struggle to plan anything in advance as the chances are I won't have enough energy to make it."

"I'm also a complete shopaholic, and this condition really gets in the way of my shopping," she laughs.

POTS is a chronic health condition which can be defined as an abnormal increase in heart rate on becoming upright. Although not life threatening, it is completely life altering, with symptoms including dizziness, fainting, headaches, nausea and palpitations. When most of us stand up our heart rate increases by 10-15 beats per minute, but for a POTS sufferer, within 10 minutes of standing up, there is a heart rate increase of 30 beats per minute or more.

From walking up the stairs to driving her car, nothing Robyne does in her day-to-day life can escape POTS' clutches. "Basically it means that most of the time I'm standing I feel faint. My vision goes dark, my hearing goes funny. Sometimes it gets so bad that I'm bed-bound by it, because I just can't function."

"It doesn't sound like a big deal, but the way I describe it to people is that it's like doing really hard intensity exercise all the time or it's kind of like being drunk without the alcohol, which sounds like fun, but when it's constant it's really not!"

A rare condition – it has only recently been properly described – Robyne had known deep down something was wrong for months, but struggled to make doctors take notice. They believed her ever-growing list of symptoms was just her body recovering from the near-fatal blood clot that saw her admitted to hospital back in 2008, and something that would pass in time. But it never did. "For four years after my blood clot I kept saying to doctors 'Something isn't right'. I couldn't do anything, even walk; I was like a snail. I had endless tests but they just thought it was my body recovering," Robyne says.

Pushing her fears to the back of her mind, Robyne tried to get her life back on track, but in September 2011 she was dealt another blow. "I was on the blood thinning medication warfarin, and that caused me to have a retroperitoneal haemorrhage, which is when the blood pools behind the abdomen. I lost six pints of blood and it was the worst thing I've ever experienced in my life, even worse than the blood clot."

STILL SMILING: Robyne wants to raise awareness of POTS and says even if she could help only one person that would make her happy.

"It was like I had to pick up the pieces all over again," Robyne reflects. "After 2008 I felt like my heart was broken into pieces and I was trying to pick them up one by one, and then that happened and it knocked me back again."

Lucky to survive for the second time, doctors took Robyne off the warfarin, believing the risk outweighed the benefits, and went about trying to get to the bottom of why she still felt so ill. The main thing they could find was that her heart rate was completely out of control. In fact, Robyne's GP said it was one of the fastest she'd ever seen. "Last year it deteriorated and I had a spell where my blood pressure just wouldn't stabilize. I was admitted to hospital and they did something called a tilt table test, which is when you're strapped to a table and they monitor your heart rate and blood pressure," Robyne explains.

Following hours of tests, doctors diagnosed Robyne with POTS, explaining it was most likely caused as a result of blood clots and damage to the deep veins in her legs. After years not knowing what was wrong, it was a relief to finally be able to put a name to the condition. "I just felt like if I could get a diagnosis it would justify why I feel so poorly all the time, and give me a reason to be kinder to myself."

But coping with a condition so many people have never even heard of can prove both lonely and frustrating. "It can be really lonely because no one really understands how it affects my life. I look quite well on the outside, and people will look at me and not know anything is wrong," Robyne says. "I have a blue badge for parking and people just look at me like 'What is she doing?', and I just want to say 'That's really unfair, because you shouldn't judge a book by its cover. Yes, maybe I look well, but that doesn't mean on the inside things are working properly'. Maybe if they could live just one day in my shoes they would realise."

And the mystery surrounding the illness is another reason Robyne is so keen to raise awareness, and ensure other sufferers have the support they so desperately need. "It's a very unusual condition, and yes, it's not life threatening, but it completely turns your life upside down. I just think there is always a silver lining in things and perhaps this is my silver lining – to raise awareness and help other people."

"All I want is for something slightly positive to come from it. Even if I could just help one person that would make me really happy and make it all worthwhile."

But even Robyne, a ray of sunshine throughout our interview, admits coping with everything life has thrown at her is a constant struggle. "I'm someone on the outside who comes across as quite positive but then on the inside I'm falling apart a little bit," she says. "But I think you have to keep smiling as best you can, even when things are tough. I love the quote 'Only in the darkness can you see the stars'. I think that's really appropriate because when things are tough you can really see the wonderful things in your life as well."

One of those 'wonderful things' is Robyne's husband Carl, who is always there to offer unconditional support on the good and bad days. "I got married in 2009, and Carl has been an absolute angel. Before we got married, I kept asking if he was sure he wanted to marry an ill person. I sometimes feel guilty because I feel like I'm holding him back. "Some days he doesn't even have to say anything, he just holds my hand or gives me a hug and is just there for me."

Robyne believes her condition has deteriorated in the last year, and she is finding it harder and harder to stand or walk for long periods of time. Doctors have prescribed steroids to try and increase blood volume and keep the blood pressure up, but at the moment little seems to be working. Robyne hopes ongoing research will provide a clearer path forward, but concedes it can sometimes be difficult to see a future.

"Sometimes I have days when I think 'Today is going to be the day when it is all made better', but then it doesn't get made better, and I have a real low."

"Doctors have said they don't know what it means for the long term but I'm desperate to have a family: I really want a little girl as I'm obsessed with pink."

In light of everything she's been through, I wonder if the condition has changed Robyne's outlook on life? "In so many ways," she smiles. "I appreciate life much more and realise how lucky I am compared to what could have happened. It makes me want the smaller things more, and love the people close to me more than ever."

"Sometimes I think 'Why me?', but then I think 'Well, why not me?' I truly believe everything happens for a reason, and I feel like that reason is I can help people in a similar situation and let them know they're not alone. It's scary but you can get through it."

"You have to keep smiling because at the end of the day there is a silver lining to every cloud."

Talking business

A monthly focus on Haverhill's commercial community with Robin Pilley of

Solar spotlight as sun comes out at last

LOVE her or loathe her, the death of former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher caused a lot of passionate political debate.

I could not help thinking, whatever your personal views of Mrs Thatcher, she left no doubt regarding her stance on the political issues of the day and her conviction on resolving them. It is a shame, with so much spin doctoring and political correctness, that it is often difficult for us, the electorate, to differentiate between the three main political parties and is probably the reason why UKIP have had such a surge in support which was reflected in their recent success at the local elections.

Just like Mrs Thatcher, everyone has an understanding of their views on immigration and Europe for example, so whether you agree with them or not at least you are aware of their stance on the issues of the day.

I know a number of small businesses have been affected by the technical changes to council tax/business rates, in particular the removing of the exemption period, which ironically may lead to increased costs for the council in collecting amounts as little as £1 or £2. Mo Sullivan of Balmfords is presently in correspondence with Cllr Anne Gower regarding the matter. Should any small business wish to make contact her e-mail address is balmfords@talk21.com.

This month's featured business interview is about a company called Phoenix Works who supply solar panels. I thought it would be interesting as we are constantly made aware and advised to look after our planet to protect the future. I hope that you find it insightful – if you would like further information please contact Tim Morgan at Phoenix Works at tim.morgan@thephoenixworks.com.

What is your business and when did you start?

Established in 2010, The Phoenix Works install energy saving systems; we specialise in solar photovoltaic systems.

What was your motivation?

The founding directors of The Phoenix Works have a technical background in environmental technology and identified a position in the market for a company specialising in technologically superior, turnkey solutions completed to the highest standards.

What differentiates you from your competitors?

The Phoenix Works will not compromise on quality.

Each and every installation is completed to the highest standards using the latest, state-of-the-art products.

What methods did you use to make people aware of the service you provide?

We exhibit at outdoor exhibitions and property shows such as The Excel Property Investor Show. The majority of our work comes from client referrals.

Why should people invest in solar panels? What are the benefits?

Solar photovoltaic systems (PV) benefit from a Government-backed incentive, make significant savings on your electricity bills and reduce your carbon footprint by thousands of kilograms a year. This equates to a return on investment of up to 15%!

Are the panels owned or leased? Owned.

How much do solar panels cost? Typical domestic installations cost between £3,000 and £8,000.

What is the lifespan/warranty of the panels?

The solar panels are warranted for 25 years and have a lifespan of up to 40 years.

Is it backed by the Government?

Yes, the Feed-In-Tariff scheme is written into the Energy Act 2008.

What is the funniest request you have had from a client?

We've had requests for solar panels to be installed on everything from narrow boats, mobile homes, to shepherd huts!

Comic release

Tickets on sale for comedy festival

THE full Cambridge Comedy Festival line-up has been announced and tickets are now on sale.

Launched in 2007 and gearing up for its seventh year, this summer's jam-packed festival will run from July 16 – 21.

A 'festival of previews', it's a chance for comedians to practice material and gauge public reaction before hauling themselves, and their stand-up shows, to Edinburgh for the Fringe. Basically, it's a pre-Edinburgh warm-up, which means you get to see potentially award-winning shows before anyone else.

Taking place across three venues – including Cambridge Junction and Bar Nusha – the highlight of the festival will be the Comedy Gala Show at the Corn Exchange on July 19. Headlined by the shambolic, scruffy haired Scottish comedian and Black Books legend Dylan Moran, the gala will celebrate 10 years of the Jesterlarf Comedy Club, the monthly comedy session at the Junction.

Moran will be tackling the nightmares of growing old and fussing over religion, kids and relationships. Canadian comic Glenn Wool, who's popped up on Russell Howard's Good News and Never Mind the Buzzcocks, has been described as "wicked" and "charming" and will be warming up the audience, as will Jo Caulfield, the sharp and pleasantly bitchy Have I Got News For You and Mock The Week regular who has previously been nominated as the UK's best female stand-up. Compering the evening will be former cockney barman turned cockney comedian, Rich Wilson.

Aside from Moran and co though, here are the four acts we're hoping to nab tickets to see:

- Tony Law (July 16): A natural eccentric, Law's shows are illogical, loud and chock-a-block with ridiculous off-the-wall stories about him inhabiting the lives, and telling the stories of, a range of madcap characters.

- David Trent (July 18): A Cambridgeshire school teacher turned full-time comedian, Trent arms himself with a computer, a projector and a booming voice, and so far they've almost won him the Edinburgh Comedy Best Newcomer Award.

- Andrew Maxwell (July 18): An 8 Out of 10 Cats funny guy who's had stints at Live at the Apollo, Maxwell is tipped for comedy greatness.

- Ed Byrne (July 19): The Mock the Week regular will be chatting about middle age and may potentially reveal the recipe for his biscotti loaf as created on the Great Comic Relief Bake Off! Yum.

For the full line-up visit www.cambridgecomedyfestival.com.

Fentastic show

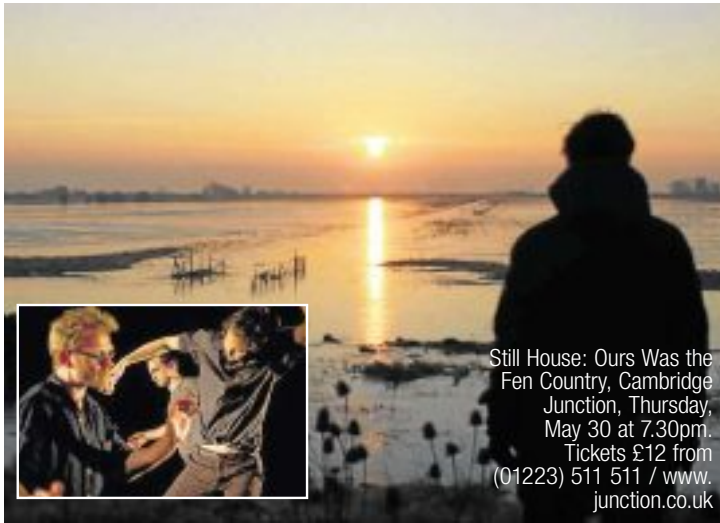

THE mysterious, soggy Fens are often forgotten by the worlds of theatre and film, so Dan Canham, a former Hills Road student in Cambridge and artistic director of his own production company, Still House, decided to put that right.

Originally from Burwell, Dan is bringing Ours Was the Fen Country, a dance-theatre piece that explores the murky stories and watery histories of the Fens, to Cambridge Junction tonight (Thursday).

Explaining how the show emerged, Dan says: "For the last couple of years I've been going around the Fens, mostly on trains and on my bike, interviewing people, seeking out rare characters who have ways of life that are not so common any more, talking to them about their lives, their histories, their relationships to the landscape, and about the future and their hopes and their fears around that."

During his investigative travels, Dan stumbled across a cast of unique Fenland people with captivating tales to tell. "People that the likes of you or I might not necessarily come into contact with because they keep themselves to themselves and they're relatively self-sufficient," says Dan. "I met some really generous, warm hearted, friendly people who were happy to share their stories."

There was Peter Carter, the last traditional eel catcher who uses homemade willow traps, ("It took me a lot of perseverance to get an interview with him, but when I did, it was brilliant, he was full of brilliant stories and an attitude that you don't often find"), 92-year-old Nancy Mason who has lived through two world wars and has spent almost all her years living on the Fen, and a 20-year-old farmer called Phil Smith who has worked a 1,000-acre farm since he was 16 ("He's really happy out there and loves farming. He speaks absolutely beautifully about his relationship with nature and about his life").

Taking the audio from those interviews, Dan has built a piece of theatre around the Fens and its people, layering music, dance and spoken word. "It's a piece of dance theatre that uses words, movement, music and lights to conjure up some of the atmospheres of the Fens, some of the heaviness and also the beauty," he says earnestly. "It uses that landscape as a metaphor for wider concerns about change, about loss and things dying out and our relationship to the natural world, to the land, to the soil."

THE BIG WEDDING certificate 15, 1h29m

BASED on the 2006 French farce Mon Frère Se Marie, The Big Wedding chronicles the trials and tribulations of a fractured family on the biggest day in one young man's life.

Justin Zackham's lacklustre English-language remake is laden with Oscar-winning and Oscar-nominated talent with impeccable comedic credentials including Diane Keaton, Robert De Niro, Katherine Heigl and Robin Williams. In fact, it is an embarrassment of acting riches.

But where it matters – plot, character development and, hearty belly laughs – The Big Wedding fails to deliver. Perhaps something was lost in translation but Zackham's script lacks snappy dialogue and the aisles are crammed with broad stereotypes.

The rogue's gallery includes a Catholic priest who abandons all hope for the souls of the bride and groom-to-be because they won't impose religion on their children and a sex-starved twentysomething virgin who is saving himself for his own wedding night.

At the centre of all this madness is Alejandro Griffin (Ben Barnes), the Colombian-born adopted son of Don (Robert De Niro) and Ellie (Diane Keaton), who is poised to say "I do" to his pretty sweetheart, Missy O'Connor (Amanda Seyfried).

As the big day beckons, Alejandro has a huge favour to ask his now divorced adoptive parents. He needs them to pretend that they are still married so that his biological mother – a devout Catholic called Madonna (Patricia Rae) who is flying in specially for the wedding – won't be offended.

Don, who now lives with Bebe (Susan Sarandon), and Ellie reluctantly agree to go along with the charade, as do the couple's grown-up children Lyla (Katherine Heigl) and Jared (Topher Grace), who have their own relationship woes.

Ayora) in tow, one little white lie stacks atop another, right up to the point that family priest Father Monighan (Robin Williams) asks Alejandro and Missy to pledge themselves to each other before God. Sure enough, the tower of fibs eventually topples over

It's a fair summation of The Big Wedding, a frothy and harmless confection that squanders the on-screen talent. Keaton, De Niro and Sarandon are powerless to polish the dialogue into sparkling gems, while Heigl's character embarks on an emotional rollercoaster that should have us choking back tears by the finale. Even Williams is out of sorts as the holy man.

Wet feet wonders

THE other week, maverick designer Diarmuid Gavin advised gardeners that they would have to roll with the weather to ensure their gardens survived and thrived the extremes.

That advice may prove useful to people who are looking out on yet another rainy day and wondering which plantings will withstand consistently soggy conditions and come to life in very wet soil.

Look at the positives of having a boggy site. Damp ground is a valuable wildlife habitat and there are plenty of plants which will thrive happily with wet feet, including bugle (Ajuga reptans), Siberian iris, lobelia, Arum lily and globoseflower.

As for trees, native willows and alder are at their happiest in damp conditions if you have plenty of space to plant them a safe distance from your house.

Quite a few perennials and shrubs will thrive, such as hostas (although be vigilant against slugs and snails) and Jerusalem sage (Pulmonaria saccharata), an evergreen with white spotted foliage and red, pink or white flowers that bloom from late winter to late spring, while the foam flower (Tiarella cordifolia) is a spreading perennial with spikes of creamy white.

Popular shrubs which will tolerate a lot of water include many viburnums, dogwoods and spiraea. For those with big bog gardens which are wet throughout the winter and damp in summer, go for the enormous Gunnera manicata, which has dark green deciduous leaves spanning up to 2.5m (8ft) and provides a great backdrop for seasonal flowers.

If you haven't much space, it may be better to plump for smaller specimens such as houttuynia and mimulus.

Another plant that boasts impressive foliage is the skunk cabbage (Lysichiton americanus), which grows 1m (3ft) high by 1.25m (4ft) wide.

But try not to plant it too close to nose level, as its big yellow flowers have a striking odour.

If you are creating a bog garden, bear in mind that bog plants look best in bold groups. Combine a good clump of foliage with some smaller, more colourful choices.

For those who want more colour, astilbes love wet soil and produce delicate plumes in white, pink, mauve, red and crimson in summer.

GREAT BACKDROP: the enormous Gunnera.

For a splash of green and yellow in spring, Euphorbia palustris is the one to go for, although beware of the milky sap which can irritate skin.

Cowslips should also be included in your bog garden border. Among the best is the giant cowslip (primula florindae), which grows to around 1m (3ft) and carries stunning tubular pendant yellow scented flowers in summer.

Another wonderful variety which is easily sown from seed is Primula denticulata, which bears beautiful flowerballs in lavender, cerise, mauve or white. And candelabra primulas are also bursting with colour in early summer, in a vast range of colours.

For a tall, elegant perennial, try Ligularia przewalskii, which has 2m (6ft) high stems and produces spires of yellow flowers in mid to late summer.

If you want your colour scheme to last longer, plant some Rodgersia podophylla, which has creamy white flowers in the summer and leaves which change colour beautifully in the autumn.

Remember that with plants which love soggy conditions, weed carefully as many of them will seed around the parents. If primulas do this, they have a tendency to produce a lot more colours.

If you want your wet garden to look natural, plant around existing features such as logs or mossy tree stumps. And make sure you dig in plenty of organic matter to help them along.

With a little imagination, you can soon reap the rewards of consistently wet soil and it should help stave off the misery of looking out at the rain.

Facebook, the social networking service and website launched in February 2004. As of July 2011, Facebook has more than 750 million active users. Users may create a personal profile, add other users as friends, and exchange messages, including automatic notifications when they update their profile. Facebook users must register before using the site. Additionally, users may join common-interest user groups, organized by workplace, school or college, or other characteristics. Facebook was founded by Mark Zuckerberg with his college roommates and fellow computer science students Eduardo Saverin, Dustin Moskovitz and Chris Hughes. A January 2009 Compete.com study ranked Facebook as the most used social networking service by worldwide monthly active users, followed by MySpace.

In recent years more and more people have used the social networking site as a platform to promote their businesses through "Pages" and "Groups". Business owners are now using "updates" to keep their members informed of the latest information about their business. Below are nine local businesses doing just this – "like" or "join" their pages to be kept up to date with the latest products, services and promotions on offer.

Insurance deal to help young drivers

INSURANCE premiums may have witnessed a slight respite recently with the introduction of legislation to cut down on so-called 'ambulance chasers', but for young people the nightmare of the first year's premium is still a crippling burden.

Parents often help with the cost, but insurance broker R K Harrison has joined forces with the Institute of Advanced Motorists (IAM) to try to reduce the burden on young drivers.

It works like this: a parent takes out a 'family' insurance portfolio covering a number of different policies including cover for their child's car – and the young driver can build up their own no-claims discount.

A 'black box' monitoring system is installed into the car to measure speed, acceleration and braking, plus a GPS location logger to correlate driving inputs to road types.

Then, within a month of the policy's start, the youngster must take a specific half-day course with an IAM instructor, who goes through various aspects of staying safe behind the wheel. There are theory elements and practical on-road sections too. Katie Small, director of R K Harrison, explains: "Telematics isn't a new idea into the market, but unlike any other telematics solution that just monitors the driving, we are giving young drivers the tools to have the experience that they wouldn't have by only taking normal driving lessons and a driving test."

HELPING HANDS: Young driver training will help cut costs.

Every month, a report on the young driver's 'safety performance' is sent to them and their parents.

Small says that the family portfolio should work out at between 10% and 30% cheaper than an equivalent product outside of this scheme, reducing the impact of that first year's car insurance.

Neil Grieg, director of policy for IAM, says: "Your average young driver will probably have learnt to drive in a town or city in daylight.

"They haven't gone on to rural roads; they certainly haven't gone on to motorways and they haven't built up that experience yet. What we're trying to do is give them a little bit of extra experience."

Accident rates among young drivers, although steadily declining in line with all other age groups, are still a chief concern, says Grieg.

"Our biggest road safety issue is young drivers; those first six to 12 months of solo driving, and we want to be doing something proactive."

Love them or loathe them, telematics boxes are becoming a necessary piece of kit for young drivers but they don't have to be a big deal.

Grieg adds: "The thing about these black boxes is that drivers quickly forget that they're there and just drive normally, and then get the feedback afterwards."

Join Renault's champs on the Red Bull trail

RENAULT has announced a new limited edition dubbed the Megane Renaultsport Red Bull Racing RB8, designed to tie in the French manufacturer's hot hatch with the Renault-powered F1 world champions.

Finished in Twilight Blue, the race team's famous colours, there are Red Bull Racing graphics at the rear and sides. Platinum Grey details include the F1 blade, door handles, door mirror housing and rear lip.

The Megane Renaultsport Red Bull Racing RB8 comes with the same Bridgestone tyres that helped Megane Renaultsport 265 Trophy to establish a new lap record for the Nurburgring. The limited edition Megane Renaultsport Red Bull Racing RB8 will be available until September 30.

In Division One, Jim Walker was first with 38, three better than Gavin Taylor. Jack Bligh was third with 34. Frank Robertson was triumphant in Division Two with 36, beating O'Donoghue and Ross Curl on countback.

Haverhill's greenkeepers Glenn Norris, Craig Sisson, Gerry Scott and Jack Warwick were the victorious team in a junior fundraiser organised by head professional Paul Wilby.

With the best two scores counting, they posted a total of 79, two clear of Wilby, Roger Hartley, Mike Duley and Roger Toone. Third place went to assistant professional Ollie Rush, Gary Liddle, John Ward and Dave Humberstone.

Anna Fairhead won the ladies' nearest the pin and longest drive prizes, Glenn Norris hit the men's longest drive and Hartley almost scored an ace to win the men's nearest the pin.

The Suffolk Seniors Jubilee Shield was run for the first time, and in the county fourball betterball matchplay event, Haverhill were beaten by one hole by Felixstowe.

Tournament triumph for Wickhambrook

WICKHAMBROOK under-17s sealed an impressive victory in the Bolton Youth Cup final at the Reebok Stadium.

They topped their group after winning four and losing one of their matches.

David Crowley scored in the 1-0 win over Mersey Bank and he was on target again in the 3-1 victory over QK Southampton, when Harry Willett bagged a brace.

Skipper Willett, Crowley, James Percy and Ross Whiting found the net when Wickhambrook beat Wythenshawe 4-2 and the captain fired a treble in the 3-1 triumph over Jaguars of Southport.

Their final group game was a 1-0 defeat to AFC Monton, who were their opponents in the final.

Crowley's 25-yarder got things underway for Wickhambrook and he also bundled in the second. Josh Free fired in the third to complete the 3-0 win.

Poole strikes to give Haverhill narrow win

HAVERHILL put last week's loss behind them with an eight-run win over second-placed Mistley in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

Visitors Haverhill batted first and struggled with early departures for Adam Dellar, Kyle Blanchard (16), Bill Moran (12) and Luke Youngs (11).

Amit Gupta contributed 30 but the top score went to Dan Poole whose 48 helped the team post 158 all out.

Mistley made an good start to their reply but they soon found runs hard to come by and began to lose wickets.

Nigel Brunning was the best Haverhill bowler with 3 for 49 and from 84 for 3 the hosts slumped to 115 for 7.

They staged a recovery and began to threaten the Haverhill total but two wickets from Gupta put the visitors back in charge and Poole claimed the final wicket to dismiss Mistley for 150 and complete an eight-run victory.

Captain Simon Youngs said "These are the days you play cricket for. It was a brilliant game and could have gone either way. I'm proud of my players and to beat Mistley on their own ground is a great feeling.

"Dan was excellent as were my spinners Ant and Nigel.

"The batting again was disappointing and the two overs we gave them nearly cost us but we move on and it will be nice to finally have a home game.

"Hopefully we will get some decent weather and a big crowd down to the Manor on Saturday."

■ Haverhill under-12s beat Thriplow by nine wickets.

Visitors Thriplow batted first and were restricted to a modest total of 62 thanks to solid fielding and tight bowling.

The best bowlers were Charlie Page Blair (3 for 7) and Alex Parker (2 for 8).

In reply, Haverhill were slow to start and were well behind the rate required.

Thomas Harvey went for five runs then captain Marcus Richard hit a quick 27 and along with Joseph Morley (13) the target was reached comfortably.

■ New team Haverhill under-14s put in an improved display but lost out by seven wickets against Cottenham.

Haverhill batted first and put up a very creditable score of 87 for 9 off 20 overs, with Marcus Richardson top scoring with 15.

With light drizzle threatening to interrupt play permanently the Cottenham innings got underway with the Haverhill bowlers – Emma Ellis, Joseph Morely, Joseph Winter and debutant Lucy Holder – doing well with the wet ball to keep line and length.

With three wickets down for 54 off 12 overs, the game hung in the balance, but the visitor's managed to get over the line to win with four overs to spare for the loss of three wickets.

■ Haverhill under-15s' run-chase just ran out of steam as they lost out against Weston Colville.

Western Colville batted first and through some very powerful hitting from opener Dan Hart (41) managed to post a decent total of 125 for 7.

Will Bailey and Ben Eames were the pick of the Haverhill bowlers.

In reply Haverhill got off to a decent start with another good batting performance from Josh Ruthven (49) and Ben Shannon (18).

But when Ruthven and Shannon lost their wickets, Haverhill were unable to sustain the momentum and they ultimately fell short of the target by just 16 runs.
